How is the History scheme of work organised?

The scheme of work is organised to reflect the fact that ‘knowledge of the past must be shaped by disciplinary approaches in order to become historical knowledge.’ (Ofsted research review series: History, 2021) - see Different types of knowledge in History learning.

How does Kapow Primary help our school to meet the statutory guidance for History?

Our scheme of work fulfils the statutory requirements of the National curriculum (2014).

The National curriculum for History aims to ensure that all pupils:

How does Kapow Primary's scheme for History align with the National curriculum?

Our scheme of work fulfils the statutory requirements of the National curriculum (2014).
The National curriculum for History aims to ensure that all pupils:

- ★ know and understand the history of these islands as a coherent, chronological narrative, from the earliest times to the present day: how people's lives have shaped this nation and how Britain has influenced and been influenced by the wider world
- ★ know and understand significant aspects of the history of the wider world: the nature of ancient civilisations; the expansion and dissolution of empires; characteristic features of past non-European societies; achievements and follies of mankind
- ★ understand historical concepts such as continuity and change, cause and consequence, similarity, difference and significance, and use them to make connections, draw contrasts, analyse trends, frame historically-valid questions and create their own structured accounts, including written narratives and analyses
- ★ gain and deploy a historically grounded understanding of abstract terms such as 'empire', 'civilisation', 'parliament' and 'peasantry'
- ★ gain historical perspective by placing their growing knowledge into different contexts, understanding the connections between local, regional, national and international history; between cultural, economic, military, political, religious and social history; and between short- and long-term timescales.
- ★ understand the methods of historical enquiry, including how evidence is used rigorously to make historical claims, and discern how and why contrasting arguments and interpretations of the past have been constructed

From these aims, we have identified five strands which run throughout our scheme of work:

Topic knowledge

Chronological awareness

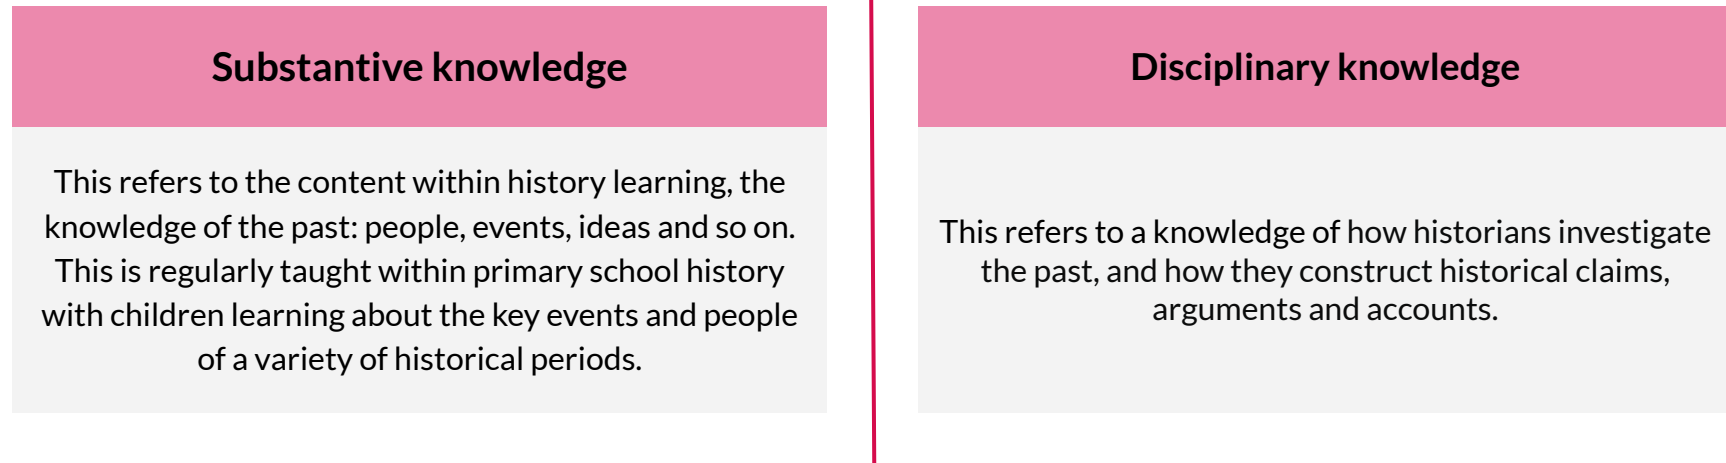

Substantive (abstract) concepts

Disciplinary concepts

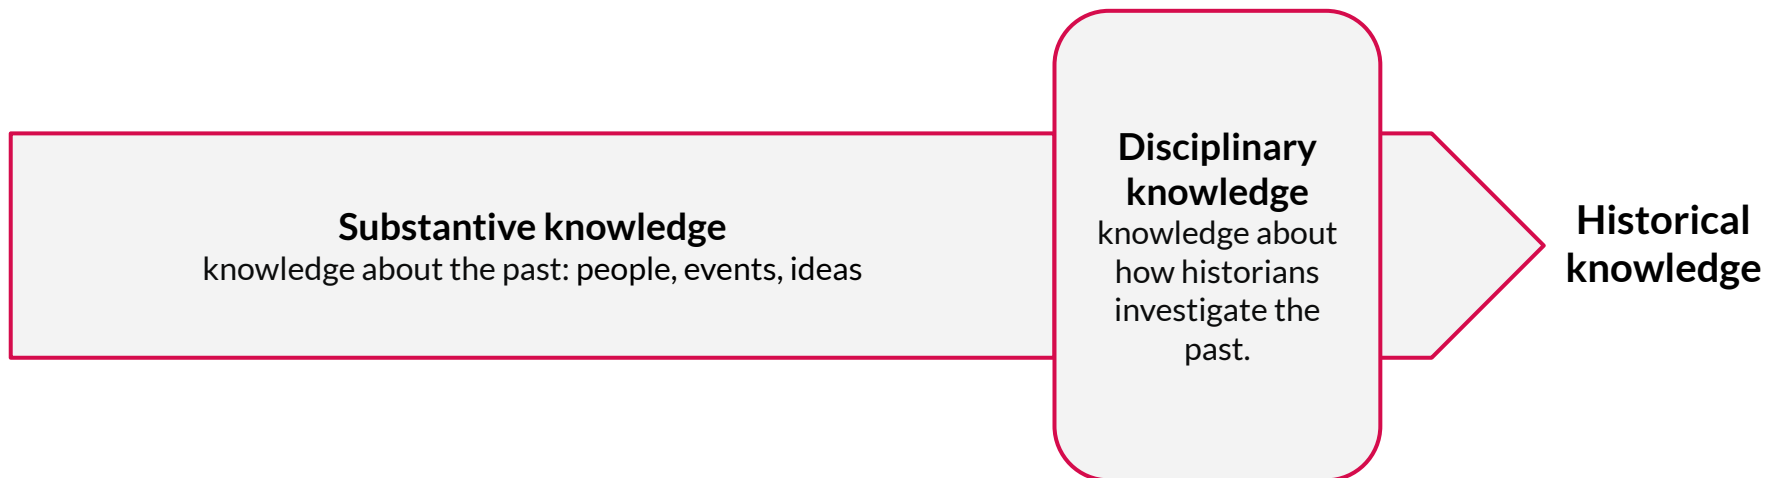

Historical enquiry

Our National curriculum mapping document shows which of Kapow Primary's units cover each of the National curriculum Attainment targets and aims. National curriculum links are also on each individual lesson plan, along with cross-curricular links to other subjects.

Different types of knowledge in History learning

This diagram below shows the complex interplay between understanding substantive knowledge and disciplinary knowledge which is referred to in the Ofsted research review: ‘knowledge of the past must be shaped by disciplinary approaches in order to become historical knowledge.’ The Kapow Primary Scheme uses an enquiry-based model so that children learn key substantive knowledge using the disciplinary knowledge and methods that historians use to find out about the past.

A spiral curriculum

Kapow Primary's History scheme of work has been designed as a spiral curriculum with the following key principles in mind:

- ✓ Cyclical: Pupils return to the same disciplinary and substantive concepts during their time in primary school.
- ✓ Increasing depth: Each time a concept is revisited, it is covered with greater complexity.
- ✓ Prior knowledge: Upon returning to each concept, prior knowledge is utilised so pupils can build on previous foundations, rather than starting again.

Is there any flexibility in the Kapow Primary History scheme?

Our History scheme of work is organised into units consisting of six lessons. Within each unit, lessons must be taught in order as they build upon one another.

Units in Year 1/2 should be taught in the correct year group and in the given sequence.

Some of the six units in Lower key stage 2 can be rearranged, however, the British history units should be taught in order to help build chronological understanding and therefore must stay in the same cycle as each other and in order.

The same is true for Upper key stage 2: the British history units should be taught in order to help build chronological understanding and all units should be taught within Year 5 and 6. This means that the British history units 4-6 will need to be taught in the same cycle.

The flexibility in the order the units can be taught allows schools to adapt the planning to suit their school and to make use of cross-curricular links available.

What do we mean by ‘Substantive (abstract) concepts?’

Substantive concepts are key concepts, such as ‘empire’, ‘monarchy’, or ‘invasion and settlement’, which children learn about during their study of primary History. Substantive concepts are fundamental elements of children’s historical knowledge, however they are abstract and therefore children may find them challenging to understand.

The 2021 Ofsted research review into history states that, to be able to use them confidently, children need to have a secure knowledge of substantive concepts in different contexts.

The Kapow Primary scheme recognises the importance of developing children’s understanding of substantive concepts and consequently this is a strand which runs throughout our history curriculum.

Our progression of skills and knowledge document clearly demonstrates how these substantive concepts are developed throughout the primary curriculum.

Initially, in Key Stage 1 children will begin to develop their understanding of the substantive concepts of power and the achievements of mankind in How did explorers change the world?; How did we learn to fly? and What is a monarch?

In Lower Key Stage 2 and Upper Key Stage 2, they deepen their understanding of these concepts and others while learning to identify changes in meaning in different time periods and contexts. For example, the concept of monarchy evolves over time; during the reign of Henry VIII the monarch enjoyed absolute power whereas by the 20th century the power of the monarch was devolved to the Government.

Substantive concepts in Kapow Primary’s History scheme of work:

Evolve
Civilisation
Trade
Migration
Devolve

Invasion and settlement

How will the scheme develop disciplinary concepts?

An understanding of the key disciplinary concepts which underpin the study of history supports the children in broadening their skills, knowledge and understanding.

Change and continuity

Children identify and explain change and continuity across periods of history, focusing on chronology. They refer to the timeline throughout each unit, looking at sequencing, intervals between events and the duration of each key event

Similarities and differences

Children identify similarities and differences across periods of time. They will explain similarities and differences between social, cultural, religious and ethnic diversity in Britain across time periods and suggest reasons for these.

Cause and consequence

Looking into the reasons for, and results of, historical events and analysing these, children develop an understanding of cause and consequence. Children explain the reasons for and results of historical events, situations and changes.

Historical significance

Considering what makes events and people significant in their historical context and the present day, children compare significant people and events across different time periods and explain the significance of these.

Sources of evidence

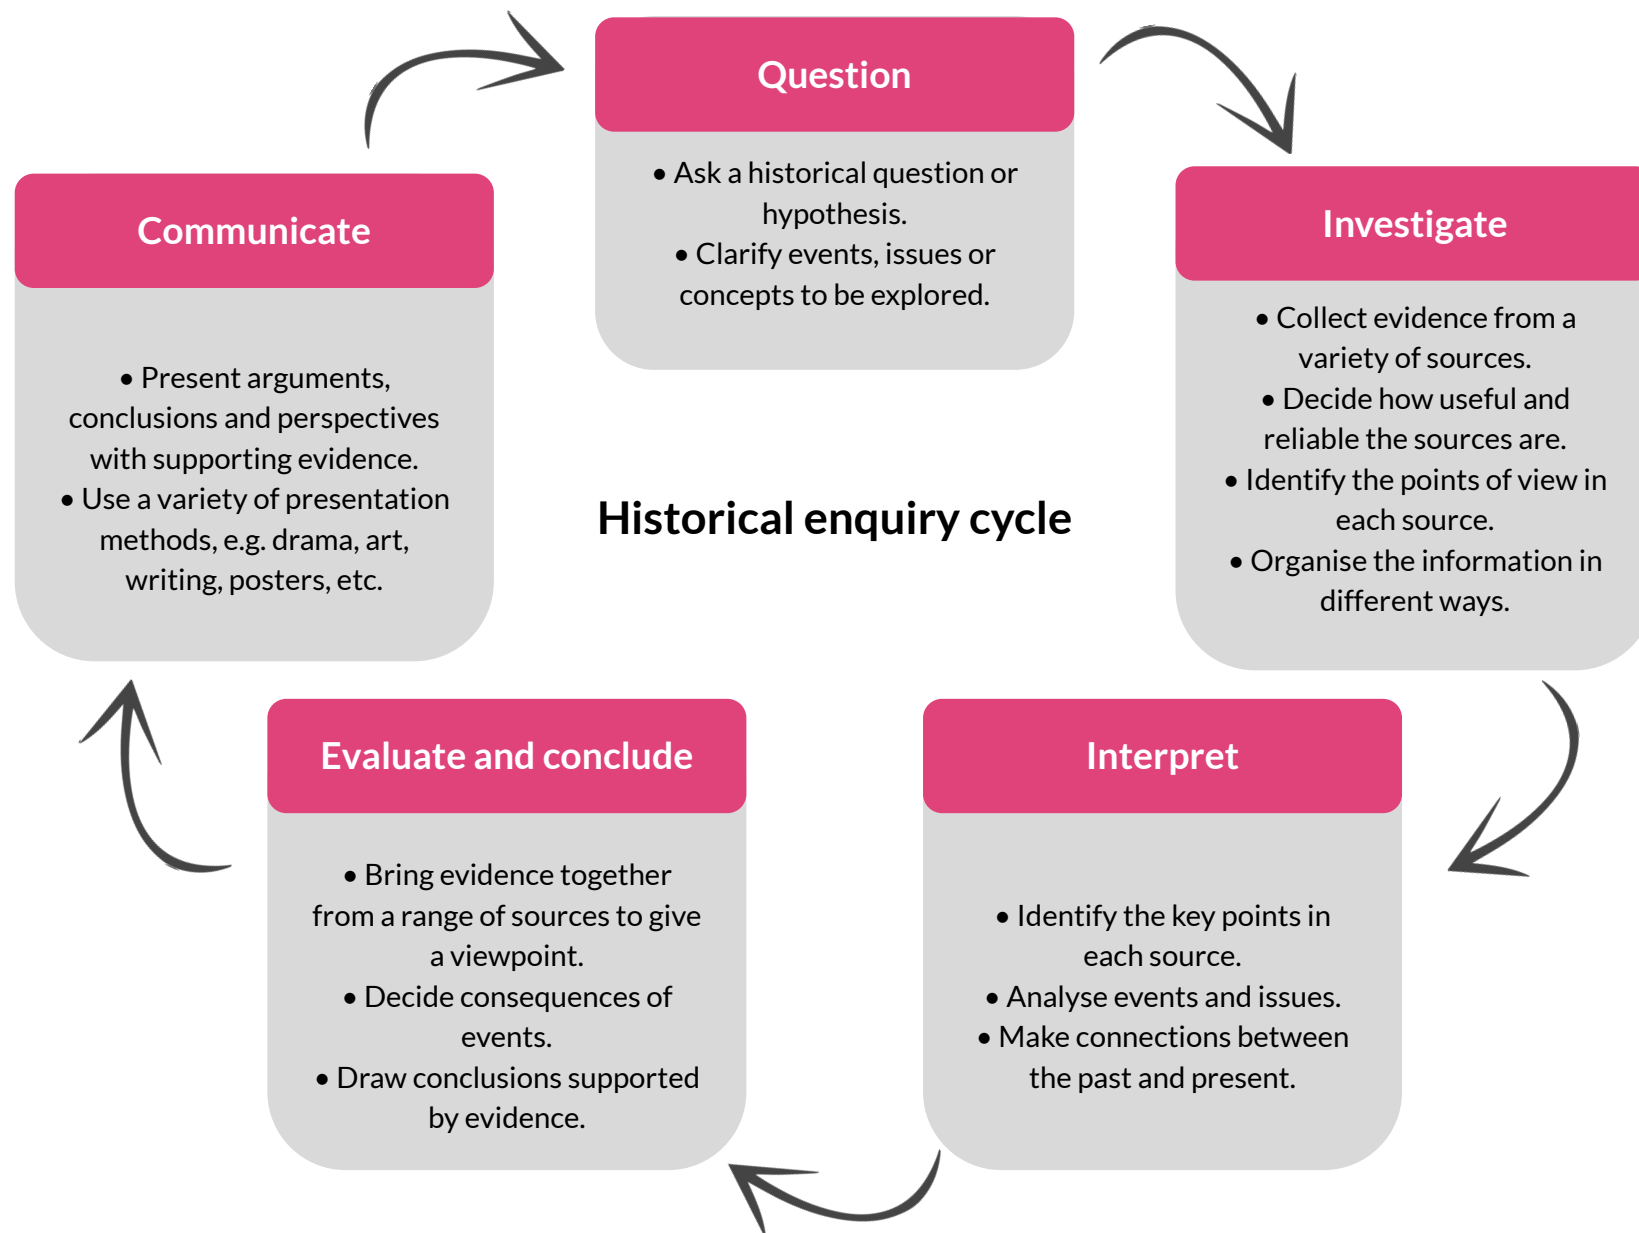

Children use a range of different sources to investigate the past identifying whether they are primary or secondary sources. They use sources of evidence to build up a picture of the past and can identify the reliability and limitations in the sources they use.

Historical interpretations

Children will study how historians interpret the past and why events, people and changes were interpreted in different ways. They will learn to evaluate a range of historical interpretations, considering their reliability and quality.

How will the scheme develop Historical enquiry skills?

The Kapow Primary scheme allows children to experience the processes historians use to find out about the past.

Assessment in History

Formative assessment

Each lesson contains the 'Assessing progress and understanding' section which helps teachers to identify those pupils who are secure in their learning or working at a greater depth in each lesson. These assessments can then be recorded on our History: Assessment spreadsheet which supports the teacher in identifying gaps in learning amongst the class or for individual pupils.

Summative assessment

The disciplinary strands are assessed using a Skills catcher at the end of each unit. This requires children to draw upon their disciplinary knowledge in order to respond to an outcome task, such as the one shown here.

Each disciplinary concept is assessed at least once by the end of Key stage 1 and once by the end of Key stage 2 using historical enquiry skills. Skills catchers provide teachers with a record of summative assessment as evidence of progression from Key stage 1 to Key stage 2. It is suggested that teachers keep the Skills catchers as children move through Primary school so that History coordinators will have a record of children's learning.

Substantive concepts will be assessed using an end of unit quiz in Key stage 2.
